

Once your seedlings are planted outside you can make the most of exploring the garden with a game of Garden Creature Bingo.

Step one

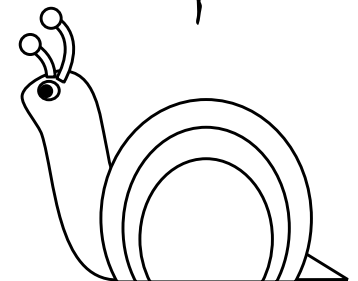

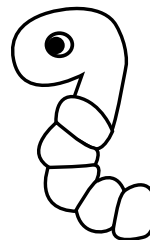

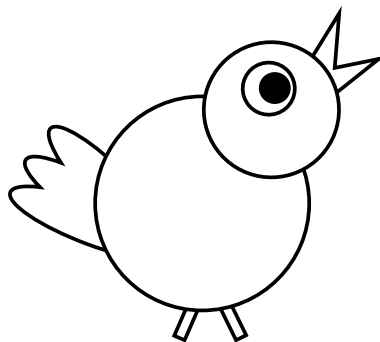

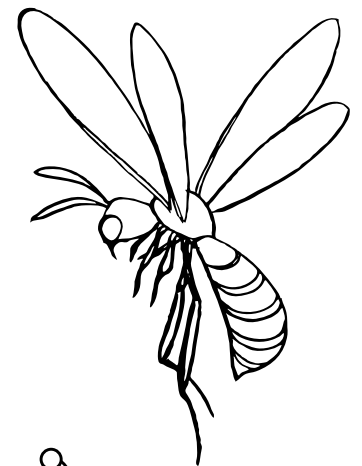

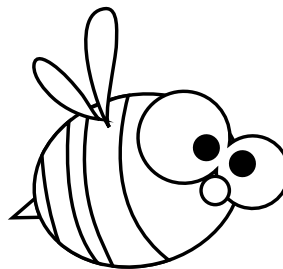

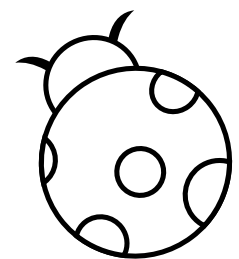

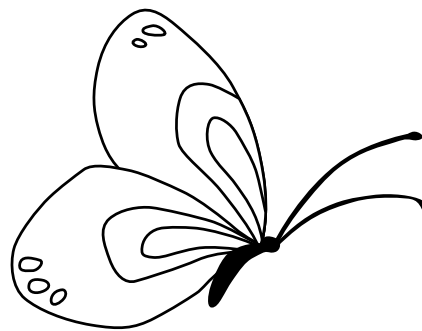

Draw all the creatures you think might be in your garden on a big piece of card and write their names underneath.

Step two

Go hunting for creatures and tick them off your chart as you find them. Keep your chart up on the wall throughout the sunflower project and see if you can spot them all.

Step three

Take time to observe the creatures as you find them: count their legs, talk about what they eat. Talk about the garden ecosystem and whether each creature is a goodie or a bad-die.

Don't forget to send us a photo of your creation!
